DEDICATION

To our friend and principal, Mr. B. W. Kelly, we respectfully dedicate this book.

Editorial

7216973

In this Pierian we have tried to give a true review of the events of the school year, and also to please every one connected with Richmond High School. If we have been successful, it has been only through the hearty co-operation of all connected with the staff. If, on the other hand, you are terribly bored by this book, we humbly ask you to remember Alexander Pope's warning:

"But, of the two, less dangerous is the offense
To tire our patience than mislead our sense."

We may bore you, but we feel sure that we will not misinform you.

We feel that the book should be looked at carefully to show its truth worth, for, as Pope says—

"A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring;
There shallow draughts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again."

And man, the hermit, sighed—till woman smil'd."

BERNICE JUDAY—Vocational Music.

Pedestrian Club, '18, '19; G. A. A.; Girls' Liberty Guards; Apollo Chorus.

Bernice will never have to conserve; she has a little "Hoover" all her own.

SENIORS

SENIORS

THOMAS B. WALTER—Academic.

Grand Spark, Senior Science Club; Senior Motion Picture Operator; Senior Electrical Engineer Radio Club, '16, '17, '18, '19.

Tommy, our only spark entitled to wear long pants, says, "Speaking of music, I'm somewhat of a lyre myself."

TERESA CREBB—Academic.

G. A. A.; Dramatic Society, '19; My America League.

His name rhymes with Wilson; Now, perhaps it is Tillson.

SIDNEY C. WATT—Commercial.

"Maggie" likes war—not the soldiers but the "Canaans."

HERBERT RUSSELL—Academic.

Hi-Y; Glee Club; President of the Forum, '19; Student Council.

"A lion among ladies is the most dreadful thing."

MARY REINHARD—Academic.

Pierian, '19; Dramatic Society, '18, '19; Pedestrian Club, '19; Student Council; Girls' Liberty Guards; G. A. A.; My America League; "The Betty Wales Girls and Mr. Kidd."

I have a conscience, but my heart does flop so!

SENIORS

SENIORS

PAULINE SMITH—Academic.

Dramatic Society, '18, '19; Pierian, '19; Register, '19; Girls' Liberty Guards; My America League; G. A. A.; Pedestrian Club, '19; Student Council; Forum, '19; Press Club, '19; The Betty Wales Girls and Mr. Kidd, "The College Widow."

When once a young heart of a maiden is stolen,
The maiden herself will steal after it soon.

ORAN PARKER—Academic.

Pierian, '19; Register, '19; Dramatic Society, '17, '18, '19; Student Council; Press Club, '19; Hi-Y Club, '17, '18, '19; "Hyacinth Halvey," "Lend Me Five Shillings," "The College Widow."

Oran says that next to being an actor, being an epicure is the best.

MABLE HARRIS—Commercial.

Pedestrian Club; G. A. A.; Girls' Liberty Guards.

"That's me all over, Mable."

JOSEPH STEVENS—Academic.

Hi-Y, '18, '19; Second Team, '19; Forum, '19; Drum Corps, '19.

We often run across somebody in this class that is really sensible. This is Joe, who is also one of those good-measure hash slingers and soda squirts.

ROSAMOND BORDER—Commercial.

G. A. A.

"Rosamond has a 'Ray' of light that just got discharged from the navy."

RALPH PEARCY—Academic.

That's all right, old boy. I was young and frivolous myself once.

SENIORS

HELEN UNTCHANK—Academic

G. A. A.; Girls' Liberty Guards;
Press Club, '19.

If one got honor for every good thing he did, Helen would be covered with laurels.

BURL FASICK—Industrial.

Hi-Y Club; Radio Club, '17, '18;
Senior Science Club, '19.

"Fizzie" says, "I guess I'll take Physics IV, I need the sleep."

MARY ALICE FORNSELL—
Academic.

G. A. A.; My America League;
Pedestrian Club, '15, '16.

Whence is thy learning? Hath thy toil
O'er books consumed the midnight oil?

ANNIS LIENEMAN—Academic.

Quiet, unobtrusive, and bright.

ROBERT C. HODGIN—Industrial.

Hi-Y Club; Dramatic Society;
Forum, '19; R. H. S. Cadets;
"Lend Me Five Shillings." "The College Widow."

"I'm rattling my way through life."

MARJORIE SMITH—Academic.

Pedestrian Club; My America
League; G. A. A.

All human creatures should be equal. Give women votes and—and——

SENIORS

MARY LAHRMAN—Academic.

Pierian, '19; Dramatic Society, '17, '18, '19; Student Council; G. A. A.; My America League.

A little conceit, a little fun, a little joy, a little study—that's Mary.

J. CORWIN BROWN—
Vocational Music.

Orchestra, '19; Sextette; Glee Club, '19; Rooters' Band, '19; Dramatic Society, '19; Forum, '19; Pierian Staff, '19; Register Staff, '19; Apollo Chorus, '19; Vice-Pres. Student Council, '19; "The College Widow."

It is a shame that so many talents must lie undeveloped.

SUSAN CASTATOR—Academic.

My America League; G. A. A.; Girls' Liberty Guards.

Quiet, impressive, but fruitful in high grades.

WILLODENE BOOMERSHINE—
Academic.

Girls' Liberty Guards.

"My middle name is Alice—that's too long for any person and I'd like to change it."

MALVERN SUPER—Academic.

Orchestra, '17, '18, '19; Hi-Y Club; My America League; "Tirones."

The child wonder—judging by size.

FERN HOMAN—Academic.

Basketball, '15, '16; My America League; Pedestrian Club, '16, '17, '18; Dramatic Society, '18; "Breezy Point," '17; "Sabado sin Sol," '19.

"And just as I got to the interesting place—I woke up."

SENIORS

JULIA VON PEIN—Commercial.

Pedestrian Club; Girls' Liberty Guards; G. A. A.; My America League; "Breezy Point"; "Miss Fearless and Co."; "The College Widow."

"I guess I'll be an old maid. I don't see any one that suits me."

GLENN WEIST—Academic.

"I was having a good time until they woke me up."

RUTH WALTER—Commercial.

Basketball, '16, '17, '18, '19; My America League; Captain Basketball, '15; Baseball, '16, '17; Girls' Liberty Guards, '18, '19.

"Locate him and then torpedo him; then, if he doesn't move, use your hat-pin."

GRACE BARTON—Vocational Music.

Dramatic Society, '18; Pedestrian Club, '17, '18, '19; Girls' Liberty Guards; Orchestra, '16, '17, '18, '19; "The College Widow," "Miss Fearless and Co."

O Grace likes Walts and Grace likes Harolds,
For the flirting stuff she has in barrels.

HOWARD MONGER—Academic.

Howard does not have to worry over his heart-breaking career.

HELEN FIRTH—Commercial.

Pedestrian Club; Dramatic Society; G. A. A.; Girls' Liberty Guards.

Largely bent on pleasure. School's just to rest in.

SENIORS

JOSEPHINE HIATT—Academic

Pedestrian Club, '18, '19; Dramatic Society, '18, '19; Treasurer, Class '19; Apollo Chorus; G. A. A.; My America; Girls' Liberty Guards; "The College Widow."

Jo may look angelic, but she rather likes ol' Nick.

HAROLD SINEX—Commercial.

Pierian Advertising Manager, '19; Register, '17; Forum, '17, '19; Dramatic Society; Glee Club; Senior Science Club; Hi-Y Club; Student Council; Apollo Chorus.

"Don't tell anybody, but I'm Cupid in disguise. See my horns?"

HARRIETT THOMAS—Academic.

Dramatic Society, '19; Pedestrian Club, '19; My America League, '18; Liberty Guards, '19.

Lively, spritely—n everything!

JOHN JONES—Academic.

Orchestra, '18, '19; R. H. S. Cadets; Band; Glee Club, '19; Hi-Y Club; Forum, '19; Senior Science Club, '19; My America League.

Johnny says that if happiness were water he would be the whole darned ocean.

MOZELLE HUNTER—Academic.

Quiet and modest, but a real musician.

CLEM B. MEYERS—Industrial.

Hi-Y, '17, '18, '19; Band, '19; Forum, '19; Cadets; "The College Widow."

When "Canary" is not whistling or gyrating on a banjo, he loves to "Read."

SENIORS

CLAUDE G. MILLER—Industrial.

Wireless Club, '16; Pierian, '18, '19; Forum, '19; Register, Asst. Editor, '18; Board of Editors, '19; Student Council, '19; Press Club, '19; Apollo Club, '19; Dramatic Society, '19; Orchestra, '16, '17, '18, '19; Glee Club, '19; Hi-Y Club, '18, '19; "Hyacinth Halvey," "Lend Me Five Shillings," "The College Widow."

Claude manages to find time for school activities between acts, while playing the part of Romeo.

BIRDICE NORRIS—Academic.

Pierian, '19; Dramatic Society, '18, '19; Pedestrian Club, '19; Girls' Liberty Guard; My America League; "Tiromes," "The Betty Wales Girls and Mr. Kidd."

When Birdie isn't working, she is looking toward the west with a sunset look in her eyes. Gee, we wonder if he graduates.

LOWELL PATTI—Academic.

Orchestra, '16; Forum, '19; R. H. S. Cadets; Hi-Y Club; My America League; Drum Corps, '19; Senior Science Club; Pierian, '19; "Pauvre Sylvie."

SENIORS

FRIEDA LOHMAN—Commercial.

Pedestrian Club; Girls' Liberty Guards; G. A. A.; Baseball, '15; Basketball, '16, '17.

"It's better to have loved a short man
Than never to have loved at-tall."

HARRY FISHER—Academic.

Harry is always looking for someone to scratch his head. He is afraid of splinters.

THELMA CAMPBELL—Academic.

Pedestrian Club, '18, '19; Dramatic Society, '18, '19; Liberty Guards.

"Just when I get ready to say something, everybody else is talking."

W. GEORGE EVERS-MAX—Academic

Basketball, '19; Track, '18, '19;
Tennis Team, '18, '19; Baseball,
'15; Secretary Hi-Y, '19; Student Council; Board of Control,
'16.

George is small but full of fight.
He goes to bed at eight each night.
A girl he never cares to see (1/2).
Oh, my! How nice some folks can be.

TREVA DAFLER—Commercial.

"If I didn't have to sleep, I'd enjoy myself—honestly!"

RALPH HUNT—Commercial.

"I've passed everything from papers to algebra."

HELEN OWENS—Commercial.

Here today—gone tomorrow!

PAUL HEIRONIMUS—Academic.

Pierian, '19; Orchestra, '17, '18,
'19; Forum, '19.

Paul's a Latin shark, a second Sherlock Holmes, and Alice in Wonderland, all in one.

ESTHER BOYD—Commercial.

A snug cottage by the roadside would suit Esther.

ELLA KELLUM—Commercial.

G. A. A.

"Just get me started once, I'll tell 'em something."

PAUL ROHLFSING—Academic.

Hi-Y Club, '17, '18, '19; R. H. S. Cadets; Forum, '19.

I've written Cupid twice about it, but he says I'm too young.

LURADA GIBSON—Academic.

Dramatic Society, '19; Pedestrian Club, '19; Girls' Liberty Guards; "The Betty Wales Girls and Mr. Kidd."

"I like cows and chickens, but the city's the place for peace-loving folks like me."

SAMUEL FISHER—Industrial Arts.

Hi-Y Club, '19; Forum, '19; R. H. S. Cadets; Senior Science, '19; "The College Widow."

"My ambition is to live in Paris and a Morris chair."

BONNIE CARMEN—Academic.

My America League; G. A. A.; Apollo Chorus.

"There isn't a parrot anywhere that can out-talk me."

MARIUS E. FOSSENKEMPER—Vocational Music.

Orchestra, '17, '18, '19; Student Council, '19; Band, '18, '19; Sextette; "The College Widow."

The only reason why Apollo is god of music, is because he beat me to it by a few years.

SENIORS

EUNICE KENWORTHY—Industrial

G. A. A.; Baseball; Captain Basketball; Girls' Liberty Guards.

"It keeps me busy hunting up something to fuss over."

CHESTER HARTER—Commercial.

Hi-Y Club; Glee Club.

Up! Up! my friend, and quit thy books,
Or surely you'll grow double!

BERNICE LAYMON—Commercial.

G. A. A.; Dramatic Society; Pedestrian Club; Girls' Liberty Guards.

"I'm so afraid to say anything—!!"

THELMA BYMASTER—Commercial.

Pedestrian Club; G. A. A.; Girls' Liberty Guards; Basketball, '16, '17, '18, '19.

"I know that no man in real life ever made love like a lover on the stage."

JOHN EVANS—Commercial.

These deep, dark orbs and his ukelele make all femininity address him as "Oh, Johnny," etc.

FRANCES OWENS—Commercial.

G. A. A.; My America League; Student Council; Girls' Liberty Guards.

Frances is a mighty good ivory-pounder at that.

SENIORS

ALMA WAIDELE—Commercial.

Pedestrian Club; G. A. A.; My America League.

Lots of rare judgment—which speaks for itself.

RUSSELL CRABB—Academic.

Hi-Y Club.

Bill's nature is not like his name, but even at that he is somewhat snappy.

FLORA ROLL—Commercial.

My America League; G. A. A.; Girls' Liberty Guards.

Flora thinks that the elementary necessity of happiness is the front seat of an auto.

VELMA WALSH—Commercial.

G. A. A.; My America League; Girls' Liberty Guards.

"Common sense extracts more solid comfort from life than genius does."

HEISTAND BROWN—
Vocational Music.

Pierian Staff, '19; Dramatic Society, '19; Forum, '19; Hi-Y Club, '19; Captain Gym Team, '19; Glee Club, '19; Rooters' Band, '19; Orchestra, '19; Sextette, '19; Track Team, '19.

I wonder if I can't mine up a regular romance here?

MARY D. WAY—Industrial.

G. A. A.; Basketball; Baseball; My America League; Red Cross, '17, '18; Captain Basketball, '16, '17.

There is a "way" to everything good; there's a "way" in and there's a "way" out.

SENIORS

SENIORS

MARY DRULEY—Academic.

Forum.

Mary has taught us that good students do not have to live in large cities. (Mary hails from Boston, Ind.)

ROBERT CRAIG—Academic.

Senior Science Club, '19; Hi-Y Club.

"When I feel at home is when I'm completely surrounded with Freshman girls."

IDA CORCORAN—Commercial.

"I ain't neither sad—I jis act this way."

EDITH HUNT—Academic.

Basketball, '18, '19; Girls' Liberty Guards.

"Another minute and I'll scream. I'm so happy."

FREDERICK VAN ALLEN—Academic.

Orchestra, '16; Captain Second Basketball Team, '17; Track Team, '16, '17; First Basketball Team, '18; Captain First Basketball Team, '19; President Junior Class, '18; Student Council, '19; Tennis Team; "The College Widow."

"Seven dates a week down south of town won't hurt any man."

LOIS JOHANNING—Academic.

Dramatic Society; Treasurer Class, '18; G. A. A.; Basketball, '17; Apollo Chorus; My America League.

Lois says, "I love 'em all." We believe her.

SENIORS

SENIORS

HENRIETTA HOVELMEIER—Commercial.

G. A. A.

"I don't like that last name—guess I'll change it."

FRED BUTLER—Commercial.

"My nickname is "Fritz," my slogan is "Folly," and my occupation is "Rest."

NELLIE VORE—Commercial.

Nellie thinks she will be a master of business, but we'd rather see her master of a household.

BEATRICE LOUISE—Commercial.

G. A. A.

"Bee" believes the essence of life to be a good time and a couple of sticks of "Wrigley's."

PAUL J. LICHTENFELS—Academic.

My America League; Essay Contest, '18; Forum, '18, '19; Gettysburg Address, '18; Hi-Y Club, '19; Dramatic Society, '19; Press Club, '19; Asst. Editor Register, '19; Debating Team, '19; Student Council, '19; Editor Pierian, '19; "The College Widow."

I won't be home until morning,
It's lucky my head is stout,
For I won't be home till we've won
the debate,
And put the Pierian out.

STELLA KNODE—Academic.

Orchestra, '16, '17, '18, '19; Dramatic Society, '18, '19; Pedestrian Club, '19; Basketball, '16, '17.

The only time Stella enjoyed herself was just before they placed a traffic cop in front of her locker.

SENIORS

CONRAD OTTEFELD—Commercial.

Connie has a dickens of a time with the ladies.

RUTH KEELOR—Commercial.

G. A. A.

"Ruth is firm in the belief that there is no graduating from the school of experience.

GEORGE F. KESSLER—Academic.

Senior Science Club, '19; Wireless Club, '17.

"A man he seems of cheerful yesterdays and confident tomorrows."

ELIZABETH BROWNE—Academic.

Pedestrian Club; Dramatic Society; "The College Widow."

If brightness counts, she is Edison's only enemy.

SENIORS

HELEN COOK—Commercial.

Pedestrian Club; Dramatic Society; G. A. A.; Girls' Liberty Guards.

Helen claims that men are made for the same thing that trees are;—to grow, to bark, to cut, and to lean against.

CHARLES HUNT—Industrial.

Forum, '19.

"My one ambition is to raise a mustache and a dollar."

MAJORIE EDWARDS—Commercial.

G. A. A., President, '19; Scout, '18; Basketball; Baseball; My America League; Pedestrian Club; Dramatic Society, '19; Student Council; Liberty Guards; "The Burglar," "The College Widow."

No, really, this isn't his locker, but here's where he spends most of his time.

SENIORS

LOWELL JOHNSON—Industrial.

The light went completely out—Naw, never missed it!

HAZEL SISSMAN—Commercial.

"Lots of work brings lots of satisfaction."

CECIL SWISHER—Industrial.

Although an American, he does not care for Liberty.

SENIORS

Fern DeBek—Academic.

Dramatic Society; G. A. A.; My America League; Forum; Girls' Liberty Guards.

"If actions spoke louder than words,
I'd be like the Tower of Babel.

RICHARD TAYLOR—Academic.

Pierian, '18, '19; Debating Team, '18, '19; Forum, '17, '18, '19; Student Council; Hi-Y Club; "Tirones."

Dick is an orator brave and bold,
With wit and oodles of wind untold.
Dick is so straight and strong and tall
His head has sure some ways to fall.

FLORETTA EDSALL—Academic.

"Like patience on a monument."

MARY CLARK—Academic.

Student Council.

Very quiet, works lots, and is seldom seen.

ROLAND B. KEYS—Academic.

Tennis Team, '16, '17, '18, '19; Captain Tennis Team, '18; Student Council, '19; Hi-Y Club, '17, '18, '19; President Hi-Y Club, '19; Pierian Staff, '18, '19; Baseball, '16; Orchestra, '15, '16, '17, '18, '19.

Yes, Roland is quite good at books;
But really, he is less serious than he looks.

EDNA FASICK—Academic.

Pedestrian Club, '17; G. A. A.; Baseball, '17; Basketball, '17, '18, '19; My America League.

Edna's straight and narrow path is from one book to the other.

The Dramatic Society

MARY LAHRMAN, President

LOIS JOHANNING, Vice-President

CHARLES ALBERT CHROW, Secretary

The Dramatic Society needs no write-up—it speaks for itself. There are more than fifty members in the organization, at least sixty of whom appear at all spreads and at picture-taking time.

By "A Sudden Inspiration" the society celebrated its ninth birthday with enthusiasm that carried it "over the top" as regards popularity. The programs for the meetings this year have been very interesting, including a number of short plays; such as "Christmas Chimes," "Manners and Modes," and "How It Happened," and some monologues which took well. Miss Finrock's room, the home of Dramatic Society, was often a veritable Opera House where even the galleries were crowded by students wishing to see some thrilling romance or tragedy.

Plays were not always the whole program—Oh, those "spreads"! There was no need to call the roll then, for we just knew everybody was there, ready for a dandy good time.

The chapel play, "Lend Me Five Shillings," was a great success. The cast included Mildred Whiteley, Jane Carpenter, Glenn Weist, Claude Miller, Oran Parker, Robert Hodgkin and Floyd Nusbaum.

The year closed with a "grand finale spread."

The Forum

The Forum is an organization devoted to the youthful orators of the R. H. S. The organization is an old one, having existed under several hands and titles, but its primary object, noise making, has always been the same.

The Forum passed a great part of this year beset with trials and tribulations. Soon after organization in September the "flu" stepped in and for four weeks was master of the situation, during which time the club was, of course, defunct. Then the resignation of Mr. Null, who had always been a faithful guardian and almost a patron saint of the organization, was another staggering blow which for a time left us demoralized.

This term another organization with new officers was perfected under Mr. Wissler, and the Forum came into existence again. At the first meeting there were four present, at the next three, but now the membership numbers between fifty and seventy-five. It can be seen by this rapid growth that the Forum is a self-made organization, and has been doing things that are interesting and worth while. After a year of strenuous buffeting the Forum has been a success. Let the rising generation take the club where it is now, and continue the good work.

The Glee Club

The Richmond High School has been blessed with glee clubs since times of old. About every other year a club has been attempted. This year, under the directorship of Mr. Neff and Mr. Vernon, sixteen gleeful youngsters organized themselves and proceeded with the usual noise.

At the tournament no more valiant rooters and choristers were there than the Boys' Glee Club.

The songs which they sing are those that every mortal loves, such as "My Old Kentucky Home," and "Annie Laurie."

The personnel includes the following picked men: Nussbaum, Chow, Kerlin, Russell, H. Brown, Harter, Jones, C. Brown, Graham, Dollins, Miller, Zimmerman, Sinex, Evans, Weist, Hart, Mr. Neff, director, and Mr. Vernon, pianist.

Hi-Y Club

ROBERT HODGIN, Vice-President GEORGE EVERSMAN, Secretary HAROLD SINEX, Treasurer

The purpose of the Hi-Y Club is to bind more closely the ties of the Y. M. C. A. and the High School. It has been in successful operation for three consecutive years.

This year the social, boosters, and program committees were newly organized and much credit can be given them for the success of the club.

Only two date affairs were given, "The Farmers' Social" and a "Wienie Roast."

March 10th was devoted to stories and experiences of the High School basketball squad.

Musical entertainment during the year was furnished by the Hi-Y Quartette, Jazz bands, composed of Hi-Y members, and a whistling solo by Mr. Shamon Neff.

Among the speakers were Mr. Bentley, who gave a series of discussions, Rev. Hawly, Coach Mowe of Earlham, Bernhard Knollenberg, Naval Aviation, Rev. J. J. Rae, and the following soldiers and sailors who were former Hi-Y members: Ray Williams, U. S. N., Matthew Von Pein, U. S. N., and S. A. T. C. members, Russell Parker, Sheldon Simmons, Talbert Jessup, "Pete" Hayward, William Simmons and Charles Robinson.

DEBATE

The Register

NO ONE can be considered a fully informed person unless he knows his own immediate surroundings first. Led by this impulse, or one of a similar nature, in 1910, Mr. Null changed the High School publication from a monthly to a weekly. When the publication was changed to a weekly, it contained all the news that happened in the school instead of foolish fiction that did not elevate the student. The response was immediate; every paper was sold. Many thought that the reason all the papers were sold was because it was something new and novel, but for three years the paper has been progressing rapidly under the supervision of competent teachers and capable students. The circulation has increased yearly until at the present time practically ninety per cent. of the students buy and read the Register.

A student's mind is like a pond of water; it must be fed by outside streams or it becomes stagnant. So into the minds of the students every week fresh news is poured which broadens and elevates the minds of all.

Every week interesting editorials can be found full of logic and good plain common sense, written in a way that all can understand from Senior down to Freshman.

Undoubtedly the greatest success that can be attributed to the Register is the rebirth of school spirit, that thing which was so conspicuous because of its absence.

To read is to know, and to know is to learn. Through the Register the most authentic and valuable news can be obtained. It is one of the things that will be the most lasting and the most valuable in all High School.

PEDESTRIAN—An Expert Walker (?)—Hester.

The Pedestrian Club was organized in 1909 for the promotion of health and good times. This club has a few rules easy to live up to. Each member is required to walk one mile outside of the city limits each week or pay a fine of five cents. Most members prefer walking. The money derived from these fines is used to help pay for the pins which are awarded to the members. There are three different kinds of pins, one for the distance of one hundred miles, and the others for two or three hundred miles.

Moonlight hikes and spreads have been the favorites of the club in past history although few were given this year.

April 1, 1919, "The Betty Wales Girls and Mr. Kidd" was given as the annual play. This play was successfully given by this organization in 1914. The second presentation was equally popular.

Better luck to the Pedestrians in the future when shoe leather is cheaper.

THE FIRST STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council

UNTIL this year the Richmond High School has never had an organization to govern the school activities, except the Board of Control which had power only over financial matters of the school. The school activities were left to the pupils and to a few teachers who were interested and consequently little was accomplished.

At the opening of school in the fall a committee of teachers was appointed to form some plan of organization to promote school activities. This committee had a number of meetings, oftentimes calling in members of the student body for suggestions. They at last decided on suggesting the organization of a student council. The plan was submitted to the student body and accepted and put into operation.

The purpose of the council is threefold: (1) to promote school activities, (2) to formulate school policies, and (3) to encourage and control school activities. The membership is limited to one member elected from each first period class room; four members elected by all the students from the membership of the junior and senior classes; certain leaders of school activities; and members of the faculty co-operating as sponsors of standing committees. The standing committees handle the different types of problems, and every member of the council is a member of a standing committee.

The council is subject to the advice and control of the principal of the High School, and meets once a month. The first council was not organized until the latter part of the term, so accomplished little except drawing up the rules of procedure and the constitution. The officers were: President, Earl Keisker; Vice-President, Clarence Kerlin; and Secretary, Helen Eggemeyer.

The second council was organized early in the spring term and for that reason accomplished more. The officers were: President, Clarence Kerlin; Vice-President, Corwin Brown; Secretary, Esther Willson.

The only bill passed by the first Student Council was vetoed by Mr. Kelly. This was a bill providing that the orchestra should play in chapel only once a month.

The second Student Council awarded sweaters to eight boys on the first basketball team of 1918-1919, who had played in the specified number of games. An amendment to the constitution was presented. It was to change the constitution, so that eight basketball men would receive "R's" instead of five, as would be the case under the old way. It also changed the awarding of the "R's" to track and tennis men. This had not been voted upon at the writing of this article.

It was decided by the president that more could be accomplished by having more committee meetings than council meetings, in order that each committee might have some definite plan or measure to present at each council meeting.

The Student Council has been a success and we hope the school will continue to have them.

Girls' Athletics

THE girls' athletic season began with the organization of two basketball teams. Ruth Walters and Juanita Detmer were elected captams. Ruth Walters' team included Mary Brumfiel, Helen Jess-up, Marie Bage, Mildred Kemmer, Fay Hollopeter, Edna Fasick, and Blanche Kerr.

Juanita Detmer's team consisted of Emily Parker, Inez Harris, Arthusia Bennett, Edith Hunt, and Agatha Phelps. As the teams were organized rather late, only four games were played. Ruth Walters' team won three of these.

After the last game was played, the girls had a spread in the gymnasium, chaperoned by Miss Wickemeyer and Miss Gebauer. During the evening an imitation basketball game was played by Miss Gebauer, "Midge" Parker, and two other members of the teams. Can you imagine "Midge" and Miss Gebauer playing basketball together? After this very fun and exciting game, the girls had luncheon, and from all reports, they had everything good to eat which satisfies the cravings of a girl's appetite after playing basketball.

Later in the season a girls' efficiency contest was held. Many of the girls in the gymnasium classes took part in this contest, which proved to be very successful. It not only made the girls more efficient in their work, but also stimulated an interest in all gymnasium work.

When the call came for tennis candidates, several girls tried out. There was very good material from which to choose. After much practice, a team was organized and games were played in May.

'19 Class Day Song

Written by Paul Heironimus

Tune Beautiful Ohio

Farewell, ye halls
And frowning walls
That around our high school stand!
Class of Nineteen must disband;
Gone is the time
When we might climb
Life's hill with hand in hand.

CHORUS:

Good-bye, Richmond High School, we are leaving you;
But forever will our hearts to you be true,
Friends we leave behind;
Others will we find;
But in Mem'ry's temple will a place remain
To you consecrated; ne'er may others gain
Your position in our regard and in our heart;
Farewell! for we must depart!

Those happy days!
When Mem'ry weighs
Our unforgotten pleasures,
Of each the value measures,
Those just passed by
Will rank more high
Than all other treasures.
(CHORUS)

Now must we meet
With quickened feet
Tasks of Life more grave and stern;
Much there is we yet must learn;
But back to thee
Our memory
Will ne'er forget to turn.
(CHORUS)

Rusty Comes Through

tree was rock and took all the way through. With only one more count the crew stood New Hope, 28 and Avarice, 25. It was then that the boys of Avarice's capturing the meet took a decided slump; as Egry, New Hope's man, was known as the best miler in the state.

The coach of A race entered Brown, his best man in the mile race, and shoved Rusty in to fill up the other vacancy. As the runners took their places, the people in the grand stand began to go wild.

The gun cracked! They were off! Lady of New Hope flashed ahead in a streak of crimson. Brown of Avarice followed, and to the surprise of all, Rusty was holding down third place and going strong for the second position.

Two laps around and Rusty was nosing his running mate out of second place. Now one lap to go with the New Hope man leading by five yards. Then things began to happen. Rusty was seen to lengthen his stride and the distance between the two began gradually to diminish. At the one hundred yard line, Rusty was a yard behind. Cheers began to rend the air. Feggy's stride was seen to falter, and a streak of purple flashed up beside him on the outer rim of the track.

"New Hope wins! Warner wins," screamed the crowd.

A whirling black cloud swept before Rusty's vision as he fell over the line, a scant six inches ahead of his opponent.

Let it suffice to say that Varice won the meet by a 30-20 score, and Rusty from that time on lost his rustiness in the school's opinion and was ever afterwards taken seriously.

Lieutenant Craig

ON THE deck of the U. S. Transport "General Grant" sat Lieutenant James Craig, leaning against the cabin. He was a member of the 345th Aero Transport Squadron. Presently his chum, Lieutenant Harold Carson, hobbled up on crutches, having had a leg broken in an accident just before the ship had sailed for France. Lieutenant Craig stood up and they walked down the deck, talking.

The "General Grant" was one of a large fleet of transports escorted by three dreadnoughts and many small destroyers. The afternoon of November 4, 1918 the wind rose, the skies grew black, and the waves were rolling very high. In the terrific storm which followed the "General Grant" was in some way separated from the convoy, and in the morning the convoy was not to be seen.

Late that afternoon the wireless operator of the "General Grant" got a wireless to the convoy and the ship's course was changed so as to meet it early the next morning.

At midnight the men who were sleeping on the deck were awakened by two sharp explosions. Every man jumped up, and amid the shouting of orders and the confusion in the semi-darkness they made for the life-boats. Lieutenant Craig looked about in vain for his chum, who being injured would have a hard time of it. He was nowhere to be found, so Craig got into one of the last boats with aviators and sailors, and it was lowered into the sea.

As they drew away from the ship they stopped many times to pick up very wet, cold, frightened men until the boat was so full that the sailor who was in charge said that under no circumstances should they take on one life-boatful.

When they got a safe distance from the ship, which was not floating and after fighting the water for a great distance, they could see life-boats and bits of wreckage, but the U-boat was gone. They then looked at the burning "General Grant," and they knew that when the flames reached the powder, the ship would go down in a hurry.

They had been watching for about ten minutes when Lieutenant Craig saw a man beside the life-boat, lying on his back on some planking. He was unconscious and had a large cut on his head from which the blood ran over his face. Craig looked again—he could not be mistaken; it was his chum, Lieutenant Carson. He started to pull him aboard, but an angry protest arose on all sides. One sailor, the one in charge, demanded if he wanted to sink the boat.

Craig argued, expostulated, and entreated, but the men refused to let him bring his injured chum aboard. Craig stood partly up and looked at his chum, at the boat and men, and then at the black, icy water. The plan was horrible; his heart grew cold at the thought of it; but it was the only way. Putting one foot on the planking he lifted his chum aboard. The men, amazed at what he was doing, said nothing. With a "So long, pal," he slipped quietly into the water and swam away. Just then the "General Grant" blew up and sank, leaving the vicinity pitch dark.

The survivors were picked up the next morning by some destroyers and taken on across. Craig was not found, but his sacrifice was not in vain.

The 345th Bomb Squadron is only stationed at various combat air bases during operations which the 1st Air Force is conducting.

In the morning when the squadrons gather in the hangars to talk and the veteran squadrons tell stories of their famous aces, the 345th's men tell of their hero, Lieutenant James Craig.

WILLIAM WINCHESTER.

How Jim's Dream Came True

JIM had lived on the small island and had helped his father run the lights on Lightness No. 7 for as long as he could remember. Ever since he had tended lights, he had wanted to do something better, some daring act that would earn him a little bit's ribbon with a gold button on it, such as one his father, Shorty had received just a few months ago, when he had saved three lives during a storm. After Shorty had received that badge from the inspector, Jim's desire had been growing stronger until he was desperate.

One evening he was sitting in one of the windows of the lighthouse thinking about what he could do, when just off the edge of the island he saw what seemed to be a small, helpless boat being washed upon the rocks. A vision of a medal flashed through his mind and he hurried down the ladder, jumped over the sea, and started swimming toward the floating boat. The sea is rather rough and he was tossed about until he was almost ready to give up, when he was suddenly stopped by a large round object covered with sea weed, which he had in those few moments of excitement taken for a log. Realizing his mistake he thought he would not let the boat drift away, anyone know what a fool he had made of himself. He was very tired, and when he felt a rope or wire twist around his leg and pull him, he lost consciousness.

The next thing he knew he was lying in a bed with his arm and head tightly bandaged. He could not understand it all, and when his old aunt came in, she only smiled and asked how he felt.

A few days later he was feeling well again and was walking along the beach, when he saw a little launch come puffing up. In it was no other person than the inspector who came up, asked if he was Jim, and upon getting the expected reply, pulled a small piece of ribbon from his pocket and pinned it on Jim's coat. In answer to the look of amazement on Jim's face the inspector pointed to an object lying on the shore and told Jim that for his valuable services in rescuing a mine which had broken loose he had given him the medal.

Jim's dream had come true, but in an entirely different way from the one he had expected. He had probably saved the lives of many people by becoming entangled in the broken fastenings of the mine, and by unconsciously fighting his way to shore with it.

To _____

O UR nation is legion, for we are a host.
We are your worshipers; your cold, calm eye
Exactly weighs us each, and passes by
All those who fail this test—and they are most
The others—ah! well might their proudest boast
Be that, when measured by your standard high
They did not fall below. Alas, but I
Must mourn our friendship, now a wandering ghost.

Yet I can call to mind another time,
When warmth and tenderness were in your smile;
Your voice was kind and sweet, with pleasing chime
And ev'ry art you used that might beguile;
All this is changed, and I lament in rhyme;
But memory will last a long, long while.

March Breezes

to me to the younger Miss Lane. The young lady was so much surprised, and the natural agitation caused by receiving such a message from an old man whom she greatly admired, that she found it distressing. She immediately wrote a note explaining that it would be impossible for her to accept his proposal, & went out to post her reply, leaving him to gaze from the dock, near a window.

Soon after this, Martha breeze picked it up, whisked it out the door, and, under the full, depositing it near the door of Anne Martha's room. This dear lady picked it up a few minutes later, and immediately became too much excited to speculate upon the manner of its arrival. She hunted for her niece to tell the joyful news, but she was not in the house. Looking to find her on the porch she started out, and with the letter in her hand, met Ezra, who had in his impatience come to add eloquence to his plea.

Imagine his consternation when Aunt Matilda promptly accented him. The poor man sank into a porch chair, and just then a particularly spiteful breeze lifted the toupee from his head and carried it out over the yard where it caught the attention of young Miss Matilda's pet collie. This frisky animal, after several ineffectual leaps, succeeded in catching the toupee and raced madly down the street with poor Ezra in Young Miss Matilda, having posted her letter to Ezra and received one from Willis Knight announcing his early arrival, had regained her composure and was returning to her home when the collier caught sight of her and immediately proceeded to rub her his treads at her feet.

Poor Liza's humiliation was complete. She could only rescue his dilapidated horse and make his normal departure.

Some time after the passing of the March breeze Mr. and Mrs. Liza Manning, announced the engagement of their son, Matthew Lee to Miss Knight.

Mrs. Liza Manning

A Slight Mistake

WANTED: A young lady to correspond with a lonely young soldier. Am a college graduate. Address Sgt. Robert Smith, 74 Co. 6 Reg. 1st S. M. C., A. T. U. cation Postmaster, New York.

Mrs. Devan, who had several grandchildren, was sitting in her chair reading the Sunday paper, when suddenly she came to this "ad." "Poor boy," she murmured to herself, "he must be lonesome." Then a happy thought struck her. "I just believe I will. I can pretend that I am young again, and that Grandma can send him good things to eat."

A month later a soldier of medium height with a mild-looking face that inspired confidence, sat in a Y. M. C. A. hut reading a letter. There were several letters scattered about and he was glancing at them all. He was not pleased with any of them until he came to the very last. Then his face lighted with pleasure, and he exclaimed, "By George, I bet she's an all-round sport. And her name is Patricia Devan." Then taking up the letter he read it again. "Her letter sounds motherly, as if she were used to boys. I'll not show this to the boys, but they can see the rest."

He went to the counter and asked for some stationery. Then he answered the letter immediately. He told her all about his troubles and at the conclusion said "Please tell Grandma to send some of those good sugar-cookies."

Mrs. Devan smiled guiltily to herself when she read the letter. "But I could never deceive him now, for it would disappoint him so, and he asked for a picture. Oh, well, I'll send him Patty's picture. She'll need never know."

They continued their correspondence all winter. Mrs. Devan's letters were a source of comfort to the boy.

In the spring Robert was severely wounded and was in the hospital for several weeks. Mrs. Devan still continued to write letters, and to send him things to eat. Robert had fallen in love with Patty; he had her picture and she was just as he wished her to be. He grew better, but was still weak, so he was given an honorable discharge. Patty was one of the first to receive a cablegram saying that he would soon be home.

Mrs. Devan was out in the garden with her granddaughter, Patricia, whom everyone called Patty, when the cablegram came.

"What can it be? Read it, Patty," exclaimed Mrs. Devan.

"Please, Mr. Smith," said Bob, "and it is signed Robert Smith, isn't it?" "Who, your grandfather, can he be?"

"Yes, he is," said Bob, looking at Bob. "He is the boy that I thought was gone, and now he is back again. And that is not all. I have a picture and letter with your picture."

"You brought a picture of me?" Bob asked excitedly. "Then I can get my own face and pretend that I'm you. See?"

"That is the thing," said Bob, "and he will never know that I brought it. Come and see his picture."

So Mrs. Devan received a telegram saying that "Bob"

"Patty" would be home the next morning. Patty put on some of her nicest dresses (in fact she never looked better), and went with Grandma to meet him.

When the train rolled in, a young soldier, who had his arm in a sling, got off and looked around inquiringly.

"I am sure that is he," whispered Patty to Mrs. Devan. So she ran to the soldier and asked if he were Robert Smith. "I sure am," he exclaimed, "and are you Patricia Devan?"

After the greetings had been exchanged and Grandma had been thanked for her cookies, Bob looked at Patty admiringly. "You are even better looking than your picture, and your letters sure do cheer a fellow."

Patty looked slyly at her grandmother and said, "Grandmother I think deserves some thanks."

Robert never did understand just what she meant.

SUSANNA DICKSON.

The Fallen Soldier

THE draft which called him up before the "board,"
The board which called him ready for the camp,
The train that sped him there to get his cord,
Like many another out for "one big ramp,"

The corporal, sergeant, captain, bugler,—all
Helped train and make him ready for the fray,
At last to journey "over" came the call,
And trenchward then the soldier made his way

The gasses, shells, wire, horrors every one,
He faced, to conquer, always with the flag;
Alas! he fell, the victim of the Hun,
But never in the spirit did he lag.

He gave his life in Hun-destroying fight,
To prove to all that Might does not make Right!

THE WORLD CHOIR

1910-1911

The Music Department

R. C. SLOANE, Supervisor

THE activities of the music department this year, like those of all other high school organizations, have been numerous and flourishing. The department has not only increased its past efficiency, but has expanded by the addition of two new organizations which have proved their worth.

This year the precedent of hard work and artistic achievement set by the Richmond High School Orchestra has been faithfully kept and materially improved. The organization, being much in demand, has made an unusually large number of public appearances. Among the most noteworthy were: at the Fourth Liberty Loan meeting, at two Red Cross meetings, the French Orphan Concert, the Centerville Concert, the Campbelltown Concert, the May Festival, and in the commencement exercises. In giving these concerts under the able directorship of R. C. Sloane, the orchestra rendered with ease such numbers as "William Tell," "The Dance of the Hours," and Tschai-kowsky's "Fifth Symphony."

One of the new and successful additions to the music department has been the Richmond High School Sextette. This organization is composed of selected members of the orchestra, with the aid of Miss Edna Marlatt, Assistant Music Supervisor in Richmond School. The sextette, under the supervision of the music department, has appeared in two public recitals which were made successful by the presence of large audiences. Other occasions at which the sextette was privileged to play were: two concerts at New Paris, one at a Centerville Alumni banquet, at Campbelltown commencement, at the State Music Teachers' Convention, held at Muncie, and in the May Festival.

The Apollo Chorus was organized because of the constant demand of a selected group of singers for the execution of classical choral music. This chorus made its first appearance in a chapel concert where it rendered with much color and interpretation such numbers as "Send Out Thy Light," by Gounod, and "Italia Beloved" by Donizetti. Its last appearance was made in the May Festival.

The number taking the vocational music course is steadily increasing and its future is an assured success.

Any school is correctly judged by the opportunities it affords its pupils. With these progressive and successful organizations of the music department what more can be offered for the stimulation and improvement of musical ability in the Richmond High School?

Calendar

Nov. 20—C. H. Scott, secretary, says: "You will be surprised to find that the school has been closed for 10 days."

Chapels

THE first chapel—One of U.S. Department Head most interesting and interesting of the past our his far successful presentation—was the "The night-day place in which the people of the world are to live, and so long faces" (a play on words and the meaning of the word again) are very interesting, and so the (the) of life and that (the) of life was the first.

On another Friday morning in December the Spanish III class presented a very interesting play. "Siempre Sin Sol" (Always Without Sun) was Friday the thirteenth, it was a very interesting and (the) of the audience thinking they were in a play.

Our English teacher of the school furnished us with a very interesting and very good program on the Friday morning, and so the program was very interesting.

Our French department of the Richmond High School presented a program that was in common and greatly appreciated by the audience.

We also remember that on a local tournament chapel, the program was interesting and of the year, when we had our short run (the) of the season and then started on our "Last of the Year" (the) of the year.

Our French department of the school presented the blind (the) of the year, and so the program was very interesting, "The (the) of the Year" (the) of the year.

On May 2d of the year, the orchestra chapel when the (the) of the year, and so the program was very interesting. This was the time when the (the) of the year, "Dwellers of the (the) of the Year" (the) of the year.

On another Friday morning Professor Smith of Earlham gave us a very interesting talk on our future life and how to use it. (It's to be hoped that some of us heeded it.)

April the fourth Judge Bond told us (as a warning [?]) how the people are treated in the juvenile courts. This talk was far from being as dry as it sounds.

Another never-to-be-forgotten morning was when the G. A. A. contributed their play, "The Burglar," for our amusement. It certainly went off very well, and every member of this school appreciated it.

The next memorable chapel was that presented by the Dramatic Society. Their play, "Lend Me Five Shillings," was a great success; but the strange thing about it was that when the hero asked the audience for five shillings, not a person had that much about him.

Another successful and rather sentimental chapel was the Senior chapel when they, as a class, gave a farewell to the school. This also was the chapel that Mr. Kelly was presented with the watch by the pupils of the school as a token of their friendship.

On May 2d the French department presented "L'auvre Sylvie," and on the following Friday an interesting extemporaneous speaking contest was held.

At the final chapel "R's" were awarded. This was also students' day in honor of our service men.

After this little review of the different chapels, it will be seen that the programs for this year have been most interesting, entertaining, and jolly.

At the Oracle of Delphi

(REPRINTED BY C. C. DE G. MURPHY)

DAY before yesterday, I climbed the tall, steep side of the town of Delphi. I fully had forgotten, not a small town in Phocia, but one of the most celebrated in Greece on account of its oracle of Apollo.

On my arrival, I was alarmed to see before me stood an Americanized city with movies and cigar stores. I wandered about aimlessly until a stranger in deep Bowery accent told me the oracle "stayed in 'at'er kernel." I went into the wonderful palace and was immediately taken possession of by one of the guards.

After I informed him of my wishes I was led to a hole, over which, suspended in a swinging chair by means of gilded chains, sat the priestess of the oracle, but strangely different from Pythia, the one I had expected to find.

"I say, Mame," said the guard to the oracle, "lay off your knittin'. Here's a gent with a stray quarter." Stray quarter! What are they used for?

"Go 'long there, yo' mutt," the guard explained, "drop it into the meter there. You don't get no gas in this 'ere joint for nawthin'."

Thereupon I dropped a quarter into the indicated gas meter and awaited developments.

Mamie immediately became gassed and said, "Whatchu wanna know?"

"Tell me," I said, "what is the price of my gas and my mates?"

"Well," she said, "it would tell you how a little from the 3 your list up to 50 and I will tell you." I did not gasped.

"I see an improvement in my gas and some thing left in my pocket and rest—"

"Who are they, pray?" I interrupted.

"Well, there's Margaret Schumann—she's got a home full of action, lots of it. Lucile Shurtz and Flora Roll have powerful ones. Lurida Gibson ain't got much to kick about—she's going to rope in some mutt with lots of coin, she and Madel Harris are going to live side by side, and that Harriett Thomas and Thelma Campbell are going to stay with 'em—none's going to be a high-class governess and the other the secretary."

"Now, there's Elizabeth Browne, Thelma Bynmaster, and Teresa Crelwell going to be show actors. Ruth Walter, Mary Way, Marcia Wynn, and Velma Welsh are in a Four Big "W's" Company and are playing in a film called "The Trials and Tribulations of Women."

She stopped and I had to put another quarter in the meter. "Now Treva Daffler, Ida Corcoran, Helen Cook, Ella Susan Castator, Mary Druly, Edna Fasicik, Helen Firth, Mary Alice Fornsshell, and Fern Homan will organize a famous old maids' club which will finally unite with a bachelors' society composed of five members by the names of—Burl Pasick, Sam Fisher, Oswald Hutter, Paul Hieronimus, Charlie Hunt, Joseph Steiner, Melvyn Soren, Angil La Fuse, and George Kessner, and make a married folks' league.

"The Hosenkempers will be judge of Supreme Court, and Russell will be one of his associate judges.

"They will be—our number,—Isabelle Hunt, Henrietta DeCrommer, Elizabeth Tittle, Helen Unthank, and Helen Jones will compose a distinguished committee on Public Safety, together with the same district five others,—Alma Wiedman, Nellie Young, Harrier Boyd, Rosamond Border and Grace Hart will have a committee on Sanitary Dog Troughs.

"Your friends, Martin Hossenkemper, Howard Monger, Stella Knecht, Ronald Keys, and Lois Johanning will compose the famous Joint Band of Coney Island. Dick Taylor will be third Secretariat General of the League of Nations, and Harry Fisherback will be his jester. Louise Horr and Floretta Russell will be his stenographers, and Ruth Cox, Mary Clark, and Julia Von Pen his staff members."

"He seems to have picked on Richmond talent," I said.

"Sure thing. Ralph Kochring will be his chief aid and Alfred Weist"—Here I had to put another quarter in the meter. "Edmund Weist will be his janitor.

"Thomas Walters, John Jones, Eugene Murray, and Oran Parker will start a national bank, of which John Evans will be president.

"Sidney Watt and Polly will live like two doves, and Harold Sinex and Clara Daub will dwell in a vine-covered hotel in Centerville.

"Jo Hatt is going to be an old maid. She's goin' to have Hazel Sissman, Frances Owens, Birdice Norris, Beatrice Lohse, Annis Liennemann, Bernice Laymon, and Ella Kellam for sympathizers. Later this same crowd under "I Wanna Man League" is going to organize with Bernice Judy for president.

"Clancy Kerlin and this Helen Eggemeyer are going to do something in the way of duetting at the Metropolitan Opera House. Fred Van Allen is going to be villain; Earl Keisker is going to be the hero; and Mary Lahrman is going to play opposite to Bob Hodgkin. The play will be written by Eunice Kenworthy, and Fritz Butler and George Eversman are going to shift scenes. The name of the opera will be "Ten Looks at a Foot-Tub."

"Ralph Pearcey, Lowell Patti, and Herbert Russell will be noted professors. Paul Rohlling will gradually pine himself away over Mary Reinhard.

"I have no trace of Marjorie Smith, Bonnie Carman, Willo-dene Boomershine, Ferd De Beck, Ruth Keelor, Edith Hunt, or Mozelle Hunter other than that they argued themselves away on the question, "Is Connie Ottenfelt as serious as Clem Meyers?"

"Ralph Hart will live in Fairview with a certain Roberta, and Susanna Dickson will finally lead Bob Craig to the golden lillies.

"Esther Willson and Frieda Lohman will always be enemies, because Ralph Hunt proved himself faithless to humanity and started a moonshiners' joint. And Marjorie Edwards—you ought to know better than I do.

"Heistand Brown and Mary Louise Bates will compromise at pretty bells and J. Corwin will then reside with the two—he being a noted artist and a bachelor."

The oracle's voice gradually died out as she came back to her right senses. Quarter after quarter I had put into the slot, until now I was dead broke. Poor Editor Lichtenfels and I, our fate will never learn.

I tried to borrow a quarter from the guard, but he said,

"Say you, what's ~~a~~ eatin' on ~~you~~? Think I'm made outta money?"

"Please sir," I pleaded, "there is only Paul and I left. I must find out our futures."

"Say," he shouted right into my left ear, "if you don't get outta here, you won't have no future. As for Paul, if he is anything like you, he ain't got no possibilities."

I left, sadly oppressed, murmuring, "Paul, can you ever forgive me?"

A SAD, SAD STORY

Two skaters and a Sophomore
Were skating cross the floor,
Thinking they would show the rest
Some brand new steps galore.

They criss-crossed hands so nicely,
And said, "Let's do the dip."
They lay a few six or seven feet—
When sure they heard a r-r-rip.

They quickly gathered up their things
And ran across the floor;
No more was seen of them that night
Since they went out the door.

The two turned swiftly 'round about,
And quicker than a flash
The skaters heard a swish of skirts
And all at once a crash!

The two lay sprawling on the floor,
Amid the mass of skaters—
Here lay a comb and there a pin,
And there a pair of gaiters.

"December 9, 1918, Got up at 6:00 and came to school. Had been away a week, so had no lessons. Got my grades. Went to orchestra practice. Took lessons after supper.

"Dutch called me up to tell me that Gene had landed, and after lesson met Dutch and he walked home with me and we talked a long time. I asked him to go to the orchestra party with me.

"I wonder if Dutch is a passing fancy or the one."

is More Than a Gift

It contains that indescribable prestige and class that puts it ahead of the usual or ordinary present.

A visit to our store is like a trip through a treasure cave.

We assure you it will be a pleasure to show you our merchandise.

JENKINS & COMPANY

The R. H. S. Jewelers.

William S. Rindt, School Representative

Miller—Can a policeman shoot a rabbit when he is on his beat? One did that and took him home.

Mr. Neff—The rabbit was probably violating a city ordinance.

Miller—In that case then, the policeman should have taken the rabbit to the city public burying grounds.

Latta in 55E in an oration—Ladies and Gentlemen, we are in great danger with yeggs running around loosely.

R. Motley, holding up Bill Haberkern's picture—Here's that sweet sixteen that's never been kissed.
